About this guide

Winter may make it more challenging for us to stay well. As the days get shorter and colder, it's normal to go out less. We're all more likely to catch a cold or flu, and generally feel a bit down.

This winter might feel especially challenging because of the cost of living. But, by thinking ahead and planning, we can take care of ourselves and help each other in the coming months.

This guide has tips on how to keep well over winter. We have split it into three sections: Staying warm, Staying safe and Staying well.

In this guide, you'll find references to our other free publications. You can order them by calling 0800 319 6789, or by visiting independentage.org/publications.

1. Staying warm

Keeping yourself and your home warm will be a priority this winter. Here's how to stay in control of your money and get the support you're entitled to.

1. Staying warm

Important

There is support available if you need help getting essentials, like food, and heating your home this winter. See page 45 for information about where to get food for free, and page 11 to find out how to get extra money towards your bills. It's worth talking to your energy supplier, too. A lot of them have grants for people who need help (page 21).

Managing your costs

As the cost of living continues to change, you might want to try to control how much energy you use, or estimate the costs. As a rough guide, the chart on page 5 shows the relative energy use of different appliances.

Relative energy use of appliances

Appliances using the most energy

- Oven
 - Kettle
 - Electric hob

Appliances using a moderate amount of energy

- Vacuum cleaner
 - Microwave
 - Toaster
 - Dishwasher

Appliances using the least energy

- Washing machine
- Slow cooker
- Air fryer
- Electric blanket
- TV
- Fridge
- Lightbulb

The oven and electric hob use the most energy, so you might want to be careful about how you use them. A slow cooker uses the least energy to cook a warm meal. Planning ahead and batch cooking can help to cut costs.

1. Staying warm

When you use your kettle, try to only boil the water you need. A lightbulb uses the least energy, and costs less than a penny an hour to run. You could save money by turning off non-essential appliances at the plug instead of leaving them on standby.

Good to know

It's important not to stop using essential appliances. Citizens Advice have more information and a useful calculator to help you work out the cost of using your electrical appliances. Visit citizensadvice.org.uk/consumer/energy/energy-supply/save-energy-at-home/save-money-using-your-electrical-appliances.

Make your home more energy efficient

You could save money on your bills by doing simple things like draught proofing. You can find tips on the UK Government's Help for households website helpforhouseholds.campaign.gov.uk/get-ready-for-winter.

You may be able to get free or low-cost insulation from the government's Great British Insulation Scheme. To apply, visit gov.uk/apply-great-british-insulation-scheme or call the helpline on 0800 098 7950.

If you're a homeowner, you can get advice about how to make your home easier and cheaper to heat at gov.uk/improve-energy-efficiency or call 0800 098 7950. In Scotland, contact Home Energy Scotland (0800 808 2282, homeenergyscotland.org).

Keeping yourself warm

Check the thermostat

Being cold isn't just uncomfortable – it can also be very bad for your health. Low temperatures increase the risk of flu, as well as of a heart attack, a stroke or hypothermia. Heat your home to at least 18°C (64°F) during the day and night. Turn up your thermostat if you feel cold.

“ When it gets cold in your bones you're cold from the inside out. Keeping warm is so important, not just for your health but also for your mood.

1. Staying warm

Check your boiler

Get your boiler serviced every year. It's best to do this ahead of winter, to make sure it doesn't break down when you need it most.

To find a gas engineer, contact the Gas Safe Register (0800 408 5500, gassaferegister.co.uk). If you rent, check if your landlord has arranged this.

It's also important to service your boiler regularly to avoid problems with carbon monoxide.

See page 27 for more information.

If you're a homeowner, you might want to consider having boiler cover that includes servicing your boiler and repairs. Uswitch have a guide to choosing cover at uswitch.com/boilers/guides/boiler-cover-guide.

Keep warm at night

Layering clothes and blankets will keep you warmer, because this traps warm air between the layers.

A hot water bottle or electric blanket can warm up your bed. Never use both together. Check if it's safe to keep your electric blanket on all night.

Get your blanket checked every three years by an expert. Contact your local council's trading standards department – they may even run free testing days. If your blanket is more than 10 years old, think about replacing it.

Community warm spaces

Many councils have created community warm spaces. You might also hear them called warm banks. These will be places in your local area where anyone can come in to warm up, and maybe have a hot drink.

Contact your council to find out if there are any community warm spaces nearby or ask at your local library. You could also look for one near you at warmwelcome.uk/find-a-space.

Good to know

It might be useful to have another look at your weekly or monthly budget. MoneyHelper have online support to help you do this at moneyhelper.org.uk/en/everyday-money/budgeting/budget-planner. If you need some help to make a budget, call Citizens Advice:

- England – 0800 144 8848
- Scotland – 0800 028 1456
- Wales – 0800 702 2020.

1. Staying warm

Join the Priority Services Register

Make sure you've signed up to your energy supplier's and network operator's Priority Service Register if you:

- are over State Pension age
- have a disability
- have a long-term health condition, or sight or hearing loss
- are in a vulnerable situation – for example, if you have a mental health condition, or would struggle to get to the door in an emergency.

This gives you access to free support and services. You will be given advance notice of planned power cuts and you might be offered alternative heating facilities if your supply is disrupted, and other welfare support. You may also be offered yearly gas safety checks on your boiler.

Visit thepsr.co.uk for more information and to sign up. Suppliers and network operators offer different help, so contact both to find out what they provide.

Paying your bills

Here are some ways that you could get help towards your energy costs this winter.

Important

Call our Helpline on 0800 319 6789 to arrange a free benefits check.

I have a bill for gas and electric that's £139 a month. I have to have the heating on because of my health.

Pension Credit

Pension Credit is extra money from the government to top up your pension income. It also acts as a passport to other entitlements, such as a Winter Fuel Payment, Cold Weather Payments (Winter Heating Payment in Scotland), Council Tax reductions and help with health costs.

To claim Pension Credit, you must be over State Pension age and on a low income. You can check if you qualify at gov.uk/pension-credit/eligibility, or by calling the Pension Credit claim line on 0800 99 1234.

Good to know

Our guide Pension Credit has more information about how to claim. Call our free Helpline on 0800 319 6789 to order a copy or to arrange a benefits check with one of our advisers.

The day I received Pension Credit changed my life. Suddenly I was able to go out and do things.

Winter Fuel Payment

In England and Wales, you may qualify for a Winter Fuel Payment if you were:

- born before 23 September 1958
- living in the UK during the 'qualifying week' – between 16 and 22 September 2024
- entitled to get Pension Credit or certain other means-tested benefits during the qualifying week.

You may qualify if you live in certain European Economic Area (EEA) countries. You may also qualify if you are living in a care home. Contact our Helpline on 0800 319 6789 for advice.

If you qualify, you'll get between £200 and £300 this winter. Most payments are made automatically between November and December. The payment you get is based on your age, your benefits and who you live with.

If you and your partner claim Pension Credit – or other relevant benefits – as a couple, one of you will get a payment of either £200 or £300, depending on your age. Winter Fuel Payment is also tax free.

1. Staying warm

If you haven't received your payment by 29 January 2025, contact the Winter Fuel Payment helpline on 0800 731 0160. For more information, visit gov.uk/winter-fuel-payment.

In Scotland, Pension Age Winter Heating Payment will eventually replace Winter Fuel Payment. But, for winter 2024/25, people over State Pension age who qualify will receive a payment in line with the Winter Fuel Payment. This will also be means-tested. For more information, visit gov.scot.

Cold Weather Payment (England and Wales)

Cold Weather Payments help people on a low income with their fuel costs. You might qualify if you're getting Pension Credit or certain other benefits like Support for Mortgage Interest. You won't get them if you're living in a care home.

Each time the average temperature in your area falls below 0°C for seven days in a row between 1 November and 31 March, you'll receive £25. You should automatically get a payment within 14 working days. This won't affect any of your other benefits.

If you think you should have received a payment but haven't, contact the Pension Service (0800 731 0469, gov.uk/contact-pension-service).

Winter Heating Payment (Scotland)

Winter Heating Payment has replaced the Cold Weather Payment in Scotland. It is a one-off payment of £58.75 to people who receive certain benefits, such as Pension Credit. It does not depend on how low the temperature gets.

If you qualify, you'll get a letter and you should receive your payment automatically by the end of February 2025. Visit mygov.scot/winter-heating-payment for more information.

1. Staying warm

Warm Home Discount

If you get Guarantee Pension Credit or have a low income, you could also get a Warm Home Discount on your energy bill. The money isn't paid to you, but will be taken off your energy bill by your energy supplier. It is usually worth £150.

To get the discount:

- you must qualify for Guarantee Pension Credit
- your name or your partner's must be on the bill, and
- your supplier has to be signed up to the Warm Home Discount scheme.

Good to know

You can check if your supplier is signed up at gov.uk/the-warm-home-discount-scheme/energy-suppliers or by calling the Warm Home Discount helpline on 0800 030 9322. They can also explain how the discount would be applied if you have a pre-payment meter.

To do

Try our benefits calculator to find out what benefits you can claim (independentage.org/get-advice/money/benefits/benefits-calculator) or call our Helpline on 0800 319 6789 to arrange to speak to an adviser.

If you're struggling to afford essential costs, like food, energy or water bills, you may be able to get help from your local council through the Household Support Fund. You do not have to be claiming benefits to apply.

Contact your council to find out what support is available in your area. Visit gov.uk/find-local-council or ask for contact details at your library.

Read our factsheet Extra help with essential costs if you're on a low income and our Winter benefits checklist for more information about the help you can get.

1. Staying warm

If you owe money to your energy supplier

If you're finding it difficult to pay your energy bill, or are in debt, reach out to a debt service as soon as you can – see page 22 for more help with debt.

Contact your energy supplier as soon as possible. Energy companies have to support you to find a way to pay them. They must also give extra support if you get the State Pension, or have a disability or a long-term health condition.

You can ask your energy supplier for:

- a review of your payments and debt repayments, especially if you pay by direct debit at a set rate
- breaks in paying, or reductions
- more time to pay
- access to hardship funds (see page 21)
- advice about energy efficiency.

I've never claimed any benefits – we were always stable, but with my husband passing away recently and the cost of living, I'm struggling with bills.

In England and Wales, you can also apply for the UK Government's Breathing Space scheme (in Scotland, there is a similar scheme called a Statutory Moratorium). This free service could give you up to 60 days of legal protection from your creditors. It also freezes most interest and penalty charges. You have to apply for this through a debt adviser.

If you're living with a terminal illness – or caring for someone who is – and you're worried about energy bills, Marie Curie's Support Line can help. They can give you expert information on things like support from your supplier, grants and energy efficiency (0800 090 2309, mariecurie.org.uk/energy).

“ I am so grateful for all the help and advice. I was able to obtain benefits I didn't even know I was entitled to and I feel like a heavy weight has been lifted from my shoulders.

1. Staying warm

Good to know

If you can't agree with your energy supplier, contact the Citizens Advice consumer helpline if you live in England or Wales (0808 223 1133, citizensadvice.org.uk) or Advice Direct Scotland if you live in Scotland (0808 196 8660, energyadvice.scot).

National Debtline have information about your rights when repaying energy arrears (0808 808 4000, nationaldebtline.org).

Important

Your supplier is not allowed to disconnect you between 1 October and 31 March if you:

- are State Pension age, and
- live alone, or you only live with other people who have reached State Pension age or with children under 18 years old.

Grants and trusts

If you're struggling to pay your energy bills, your energy supplier may have a pot of money set aside to help you pay. Get in touch with them and ask if they have a grant or trust.

If your supplier doesn't have one, you can apply for a grant from the British Gas Energy Trust (0121 348 7797, britishgasenergytrust.org.uk).

You do not have to be a British Gas customer to get this grant. You'll need proof that you've been given money advice in the past six months. This might be a letter confirming the advice given, a standard financial statement or a Personal Action Plan. You can find a list of advice services at moneyhelper.org.uk/en/money-troubles/dealing-with-debt/debt-advice-locator.

You can apply for grants through Charis (01733 421021, charisgrants.com).

“ I'm struggling with the cost of living. I had no clue how to see what I'm entitled to, until I received your help. I am very grateful.

1. Staying warm

If you're in debt

Problems with debt can happen suddenly and unexpectedly, especially with bills becoming more expensive over winter. They can sometimes build up over long periods of time – for example, not paying all your water bill each month might mean you have an annual water bill debt to pay.

It can be worrying, especially if you are in debt for the first time, but don't panic – it's never too early or too late to get help.

Debt advice services (see page 23) offer practical, confidential support. They can help you:

- work out a budget – sometimes called a Personal Action Plan
- negotiate with the people you owe money to – your creditors
- advise you on your rights
- work out your priority debts – the ones you need to pay first
- learn more about other options available to you – for example, getting a loan from a credit union.

Where to get help with debt

You can get free, specialist advice from:

- National Debtline (0808 808 4000, nationaldebtline.org)
- Stepchange (0800 138 1111, stepchange.org)
- Debt Advice Foundation (0800 043 4050, debtadvicefoundation.org).

As well as phone helplines, many of these services also have webchat options – it can be difficult to speak about debt, so think about what you would prefer.

If you need support, always seek specialist advice first. It can be tempting to go to loan sharks for help with debt, but this can be dangerous and make your problem worse.

For more information about debt advice, see our webpage independentage.org/get-advice/money/debt.

2. Staying safe

Cold weather brings different challenges. Here are some ways to keep safe over the winter months.

Good to know

Our Home safety guide has lots of information about looking after yourself around your home. Call our Helpline on 0800 319 6789 to order a free copy.

Fire safety

To stay safe from fire this winter, follow this home fire safety advice.

- Fit at least one working smoke alarm on every floor of your home and a heat alarm in your kitchen. Test them regularly by pressing the test button until they beep.
- Be careful if you're using open fires to keep warm. Make sure you always use a fire guard to protect against flying sparks from embers.
- Always use a candle holder and never leave candles unattended.
- If you smoke, try to smoke outdoors. Never smoke in bed, and make sure you extinguish smoking materials properly.
- Do not overload electrical sockets.

2. Staying safe

- Keep portable heaters away from curtains and furniture, and never use them for drying clothes. Always unplug electric heaters when you go out or go to bed.
- Never use hot water bottles in the same bed as an electric blanket.
- Make an escape plan in case of fire. Know your escape route and keep it clear.
- If you would be unable to escape without help in the event of a fire, talk to your care provider or the fire service about this.

Your local fire service may be able to check that your home is fire safe. Contact them directly and ask if you qualify for a home fire safety visit. Let them know if you have sight or hearing loss.

You can find your local fire service at nfcc.org.uk/contacts/fire-and-rescue-services or by calling the National Fire Chiefs Council on 0121 380 7311.

If there is a fire in your home, get out, stay out and call 999 for the fire service.

Important

If you suspect you've got a gas leak in your home, call the National Gas Emergency number on 0800 111 999.

Carbon monoxide

Free-standing gas heaters, gas cookers, gas fires, boilers and water heaters can all leak carbon monoxide.

First, get a carbon monoxide alarm. They are available from most DIY shops and supermarkets. Check the batteries in it regularly.

Look out for the signs of a gas leak:

- the gas flame on an appliance appearing 'floppy' and burning yellow instead of blue
- your pilot light appearing 'floppy' or blowing out frequently
- soot or yellow-brown stains appearing around an appliance
- smelling or seeing smoke
- a lot of condensation in the same room as a gas appliance.

2. Staying safe

You may have carbon monoxide poisoning if you feel flu-like symptoms inside your home, but they go away when you're outside. You should call a doctor as soon as you can if you experience headache, nausea, breathlessness or dizziness, or have fainted or been unconscious.

The best ways to protect yourself are to know the signs, have your gas appliances serviced every year and fit a carbon monoxide alarm.

Slips and falls

In your home

It's important to make sure your home is safe, especially if you are doing more exercise and activities in it during winter, so:

- use a non-slip bathmat
- mop up spills immediately
- have a night-light in the bedroom, or bedside light or torch by your bed in case you need to get up in the night
- keep your floors clear of trailing leads
- keep stairs clear from clutter and well lit
- carry a mobile phone or a pendant alarm with you so you can call for help if you need to.

2. Staying safe

Being careful outside

If you must go out when it's icy, wear shoes with good grip and a warm lining, and put on thick socks. Keep grit and/or salt to put on your path. Check if your council can give it to you for free, or you can buy it from a DIY store. Some councils provide it for free in on-street grit boxes.

If you live in England or Wales, you can find out which streets your council will grit at gov.uk/roads-council-will-grit. If you live in Scotland, Traffic Scotland have an online map of which roads they will grit (traffic.gov.scot/gritter-tracker).

It's a good idea to carry a mobile phone with you if you can. Make sure it's fully charged before you go outside.

“ In winter we need to be more careful of falling and it is helpful to learn and practise getting up off the floor.

If you have a fall

If you do have a fall, lie still for a minute.
Try to stay calm and check yourself for injuries.

If you can't get up, or you feel pain in your hip or back, try to call for help by using your phone or pendant, or by banging on radiators or walls. Try to keep warm by covering yourself with whatever is close by, and try to keep moving your arms and legs and roll from side to side if you are able to.

If you can get up:

Roll on to your side, and then push up on to your elbows.

2.

Use your arms to push yourself upwards, on to your hands and knees.

2. Staying safe

3.

Crawl towards a very stable piece of furniture (a sturdy chair or bed) and hold on to it for support.

4.

Move your foot on your stronger leg forwards, so your foot is flat on the floor.

5.

Lean forwards and push up on the furniture, using your arms and front leg. Slowly rise to a standing position.

6.

Turn around and sit down. Sit for a minute or two and catch your breath.

Scams

Scams are crimes. Criminals trick people into giving away money and personal information. These tricks can be complex and take a long time, or can be as instant as a text message or phone call.

Be aware of where any benefits or financial help are coming from. From page 11, this guide outlines what is available and where you will get it. A local authority would never contact you to get your bank details.

Be wary of all cold-callers and 'too good to be true' deals. If you're unsure about whether something is a scam, call the organisation directly. Make sure you find their number yourself – for example, by looking at a bank statement or in the phone book.

Remember, any legitimate organisation reaching out to you won't put time pressures on you.

Scammers exploit uncertainty, such as the cost of living crisis, and will try to pressure you into making snap decisions. Always take time to think about any financial decision you're making. You should seek independent financial advice if it is a big decision.

2. Staying safe

If someone has scammed you

Scams are becoming more and more complicated, and many people fall victim to them. You have nothing to be ashamed of – you have been the victim of a crime.

If you think you have been scammed, contact your bank immediately. Then, make sure you report it. If you live in England or Wales, report scams to Action Fraud (0300 123 2040, actionfraud.police.uk). If you live in Scotland, report any scams to Police Scotland (101).

Order a free copy of our Scamwise guide by calling our Helpline on 0800 319 6789.

“ It’s more relevant than ever that we remain alert. These criminals are professional and good at what they do – be aware and don’t engage with them.

Health emergencies

We all know that NHS resources become stretched over winter. But this shouldn't stop you getting emergency help when you need it. The information here applies for both mental health and physical health emergencies. If you would like more tips on managing mental health, see page 38.

If the emergency is life-threatening

Call 999 if you or someone else is seriously ill or injured, and there is a risk to life. If you are deaf, hearing impaired or have a speech impediment, you can register for the emergencySMS scheme (emergencysms.net). This service means you can contact emergency services via SMS text message.

Once you are in touch with the emergency services, try to stay calm. Try your best to answer all the questions they ask. Stay on the line until the person handling your call has told you that they have all the information they need.

If you need urgent medical help, but aren't sure what to do

Contact the NHS 111 service, either by calling 111 or going online at 111.nhs.uk. You can ask for a translator if you need one. The person you speak to will be able to advise what is best to do to get you help.

If you or someone else is in immediate danger, call 999. You should go to your local NHS Accident & Emergency if you need an urgent mental health assessment.

You can call the Samaritans free on 116 123 if you need to talk to someone urgently about how you are feeling.

Good to know

If your health issue isn't urgent, you might be able to use the NHS Minor Ailment Scheme. Under this scheme, if you don't usually pay for prescriptions, you can get advice from a pharmacist, and you may also be able to get medicines for minor illnesses without needing to see your GP. Ask your pharmacy if they are a part of it.

3. Staying well

Keeping yourself as well as possible is vital in winter. The cold weather and short days can make it more challenging to look after ourselves, so here are some useful tips.

3. Staying well

Mental health and wellbeing

We know things may be difficult at the moment. If you find yourself feeling anxious, stressed or overwhelmed, there's support out there for you. Reach out to your GP, or an organisation like The Silver Line (0800 470 8090, thesilverline.org.uk) or Samaritans (116 123, samaritans.org) for help.

As well as exercising and eating well, staying connected with others can help to improve your mental health.

Stay in touch with friends, family, neighbours, clubs and your community by phone or meeting up. It can be useful to keep a list of these phone numbers to remind you to call, or use a calendar to remind you of important events and reasons to reach out. If you're able to volunteer, giving back to our communities is a great way to feel connected.

Read our guide If you're feeling lonely for tips on things you could try.

If you feel yourself being anxious or worrying a lot, try to focus on things in your control. Limit how much news you watch or listen to. Take time to chat about how you're feeling with people you trust. If you feel like you're panicking, try to take deep breaths.

3. Staying well

It's always a good idea to keep to your routine, as much as you can. Some people find daily to-do lists helpful. Take time to notice the little things that make you smile, and schedule in activities that you enjoy. Keep getting treatment and support from your GP for any physical and mental health conditions you have.

If you struggle with low mood and tiredness during the winter, you may be experiencing seasonal affective disorder (SAD). Visit nhs.uk/mental-health/conditions/seasonal-affective-disorder-sad/overview for more information, or speak to your GP.

If you are struggling with your mental health, read our free guide Managing anxiety and depression. Call our Helpline on 0800 319 6789 to order a copy.

“ Your local library is a warm place not just for reading but for using computers and finding out what’s going on. There are often reading groups, talks and classes. It’s a great place to go.

3. Staying well

Eating well

You might be worried about having to cook food this winter, but it's important that you eat at least one hot meal a day to help keep you warm and healthy. See page 5 for information about which appliances use less energy to cook.

It's also a good idea to have plenty of variety in your diet. This helps you get all the nutrients you need and maintain a healthy weight.

Stay hydrated – we need about 6–8 drinks a day to stay well hydrated. This reduces infections and improves concentration, energy and mood. If you drink alcohol, it is recommended to not have more than 14 units (one unit is a half pint or a small glass of wine) a week. Try to spread this out and have alcohol-free days. Alcohol does dehydrate you so, if you can, have water, juice or a soft drink too.

“ Make yourself get out of bed in the morning and have a warm drink and something to eat – get your body going!

If you have a poor appetite:

- eat little and often
- use full-fat food and drinks – for example, full-fat milk, yoghurts and cheese
- eat more protein, such as meat, fish, eggs, pulses or nuts. It may help to speak to your GP if you're worried about what you're eating
- make meal preparation easy, for when you need something quick and simple. For example, stock up on healthy ready meals, snacks and finger food, and use meal-delivery services if you can.

If you're struggling to get out, some charities offer help with food shopping.

- Age UK England offer home delivery services for a small fee (0800 678 1602, ageuk.org.uk/services/in-your-area/shopping).
- In England, you may be able to get help with shopping and other support from NHS and Care Volunteer Responders (0808 196 3646, nhscarevolunteerresponders.org/id-like-support).

3. Staying well

- Age Cymru also have a supported shopping service (0300 303 4498, ageuk.org.uk/cymru/gwyneddamon/our-services/supported-shopping-scheme).
- In Scotland, Food Train make food deliveries, and can also help with household jobs and provide books through a library service (01387 270800, thefoodtrain.co.uk).

Your council also might be able to provide food deliveries, or Meals on Wheels. You can check at gov.uk/meals-home or call the council.

If you're struggling to buy or prepare food yourself, you should contact your local council for a care needs assessment gov.uk/apply-needs-assessment-social-services.

Contact our Helpline on 0800 319 6789 for advice or to order a copy of our guide Getting help at home.

Food banks

If you're having trouble affording food, you could contact your local food bank. They can supply emergency food and support. The Trussell Trust have more information on where you can find a food bank (01722 580 180, trusselltrust.org). You can also find your nearest food bank using the Independent Food Aid Network's online map (foodaidnetwork.org.uk/our-members).

If you can't get online, you can call your local council, or our free Helpline on 0800 319 6789.

3. Staying well

Keeping active

Any movement is good for us, particularly as we go out less in winter. It can make us feel warmer, and can improve our sleep, appetite and mood. Later Life Training have a list of strength and balance exercise resources you can use at home. You can access these online at laterlifetraining.co.uk/supporting-people-to-be-active-at-home.

The next section contains some seated and standing exercises you could try at home. Before you start, get your space ready for you to move around it. Clear away any clutter or trip hazards, but keep something sturdy nearby that you can use for support. Keep a phone nearby in case you need it, and a glass of water ready to sip as you exercise.

As you start, make sure you take it at your own pace. You can gradually build up the intensity if you feel like it. You might feel stiff or ache as you move your body, but if you start feeling any pain or dizziness, stop and rest. If this continues, contact your GP for advice. Make sure to keep breathing as you move.

Remember to do the warm-up first, and the cool-down afterwards.

3. Staying well

Warm up

Seated march

Warms muscles and prepares for movement.

- What to do
- Sit at the front of the chair.
 - Hold the sides of the chair.
 - March with control.
 - Build to a rhythm that feels comfortable.
 - Continue for 1–2 minutes.

Seated exercises

Make sure that the chair you use is sturdy and stable, so it doesn't move around when you're getting in and out of it. Wear comfortable clothes and supportive footwear.

3. Staying well

Wrist strengthener

Improves grip strength and helps opening jars.

- What to do
- Fold or roll a hand towel or tea towel into a tube shape.
 - Sit tall then squeeze the towel tightly with both hands, hold for a slow count of five then release.
 - Repeat this exercise 6-8 times.

More challenging option

- Squeeze then twist your towel before holding for 10 seconds.

Arm swings

Helps with stamina and endurance.

- What to do
- Sit tall away from the chair back.
 - Place both feet flat on the floor directly under knees.
 - Bend elbows and swing arms from the shoulder.
 - Build to a rhythm that is comfortable.
 - Continue for 30 seconds.

More challenging option

- Increase pace and time to 1–2 minutes.

3. Staying well

Pelvic floor strengthener

Helps reduce 'leaking' when coughing and laughing.

- What to do
- Tighten the muscles as if you were trying to stop passing urine and wind at the same time and hold.
 - Try to hold together for 10 seconds.
 - Rest for four seconds, then repeat.
 - Perform this 10 times.

- Avoid
- Squeezing legs together.
 - Tightening buttocks.
 - Holding breath.

- More challenging option
- Try 10 quick contractions by drawing up the pelvic floor.

Front knee strengthener

Strengthens the knee for walking and bending.

- What to do
- Sit back in the chair, back supported and feet under knees.
 - Brush one foot across the floor then lift the ankle slowly and straighten (do not lock) the knee.
 - Lower the foot with control.
 - Aim to lift for a slow count of three and lower for a slow count of five each time.
 - Repeat 10 times on one leg then swap legs.

More challenging option

- Sit away from the back of the chair so more of your leg is off the chair when you lift. Keep the back strong while you lift the leg.

3. Staying well

Standing exercises

Make sure that you are near a sturdy and stable worktop, and that any chairs used will not move during the exercise. Wear comfortable clothes and supportive footwear.

Sit to stand

Improves lower limb strength and stability, if repeated regularly and slowly.

- What to do
- Sit tall near the front of the chair.
 - Place feet slightly behind knees.
 - Lean slightly forwards.
 - Stand up (using hands on the chair for support if needed – progress to no hands over time).
 - Step back until legs touch the chair, then stand tall, bend knees and slowly lower bottom back into the chair.
 - Repeat 10 times.

More challenging option

- Try doing the exercise extra slowly and hover for a few seconds just before finally sitting.

3. Staying well

Heel raises

Helps strengthen muscles at the front of the foot and improves balance.

- What to do
- Stand tall holding a sturdy table, chair or even the sink.
 - Raise heels taking your weight over the big toe and second toe, hold for a second.
 - Lower heels to the floor with control.
 - Repeat 10 times.

More challenging option

- Repeat the exercise, doing it slowly, and hold for a second or so just before putting the heel down again.

One-leg stands

Helps improve walking stability.

- What to do
- Stand close to a support surface and hold on.
 - Balance on one leg, keeping the supporting leg straight but knee soft.
 - Stand tall and look ahead.
 - Hold for 10 seconds.
 - Repeat on the other leg.

- More challenging option
- Try to use the support surface less and hold the position for longer, up to 30 seconds.

3. Staying well

Cool down

Finish by marching at a relaxed pace for 1–2 minutes or try this stretch.

Back-of-thigh stretch

Helps with putting on shoes and socks and lengthens stride when walking.

- What to do
- Sit at the very front of the chair.
 - Straighten one leg, placing the heel on the floor.
 - Place both hands on the other leg, then sit really tall.
 - Lean forwards with a straight back and feel the stretch in the back of the thigh.
 - Hold for 10–20 seconds.
 - Relax and repeat on the other leg.

Any activity that warms you up and increases your heart rate can also be beneficial. You could try dancing or going up and down stairs. You could also do everyday things like cleaning, gardening or standing and stretching regularly.

Don't forget to ask your GP, library, leisure centre or your family and friends for information about any walking, strength and balance or other physical activity groups that you can join.

Good to know

The NHS have lots of online resources about exercise at nhs.uk/live-well/exercise. We Are Undefeatable (weareundefeatable.co.uk) also have information about managing exercise with a long-term health condition.

Getting your jabs

Get your flu jab

It's important to have a flu jab every year. Even if you had one last year, it might not protect you from this year's flu. It's free if:

- you're 65 or over
- you're in a long-stay care home
- you're a carer of an older person
- you have certain health conditions, such as diabetes or asthma.

Flu is more than just a bad cold and can increase your risk of more serious illnesses such as pneumonia. It's best to get the jab before the winter flu season. The NHS will let you know when you can get it. Make an appointment with your GP or see if your local pharmacy offers the flu jab.

“ Get your flu jab and any other jab that you may be able to have, like shingles.

Check you've had a pneumo jab

The pneumonia vaccine (also called a pneumococcal or pneumo jab) is a one-off jab. It helps protect against pneumonia, meningitis and septicaemia. You can get a free jab if you're 65 or over.

Contact your GP to get the jab or to check if you've already had it.

COVID-19 in winter

In autumn 2024, a COVID-19 booster jab will be offered for free to anyone:

- aged 65 years and over, or
- living in a care home, or
- living with a medical condition that makes them more vulnerable to COVID-19.

Staying on top of your booster jabs can keep you safer from COVID-19. If you can get the booster, your GP will tell you when you can book an appointment. You can then book directly with them or online at nhs.uk/nhs-services/covid-19-services/covid-19-vaccination-services/book-covid-19-vaccination.

3. Staying well

Get your shingles vaccination

From 1 September 2023, you're eligible for a free shingles jab when you turn 65. If you turned 65 before 1 September 2023, you'll qualify for the shingles jab when you turn 70. Either way, you'll remain eligible until your 80th birthday.

You will also qualify for the shingles vaccine if you're aged 50 or over and have a severely weakened immune system – for example, due to blood cancer. If you're unsure if you qualify, ask your GP.

Your GP should contact you to make an appointment to have your shingles vaccine. Contact your GP surgery if you think you qualify for the shingles vaccine and you've not been contacted about it.

RSV vaccine

Respiratory syncytial virus (RSV) is an infectious disease that causes symptoms like a cold. It can lead to pneumonia and other serious conditions.

When you turn 75, your GP will invite you for a free jab to protect you. This is because older adults are more at risk of serious complications from RSV.

If you are aged between 75 and 79 years on 1 September 2024, you'll also be invited to get the jab as part of a catch-up programme. You only need to have the RSV vaccine once.

“ Keep active and stimulate the brain. Get out and about when you can. Isolation and loneliness can be devastating. Live well this winter.

Rhona's story

The cost of everything is going up. I have to have the heating on because of my health. The winter is the most worrying time, so I keep warm in my bed. For anyone with arthritis, they'll know what I'm talking about.

I don't have to pay for my television licence because I get Pension Credit. I couldn't do without watching the television: that's my lifeline. When my body's hurting, I get into my bed and watch something.

I don't think a lot of people know about benefits. Some people don't know what they're entitled to. I would tell someone to go and talk to Citizens Advice or Independent Age.

We older people try to do things for ourselves. We don't like to think we're getting old. But some people can't do it themselves, and we do need help.

About Independent Age

No one should face financial hardship in later life.

Independent Age is the national charity focused on improving the lives of older people facing financial hardship. We offer free impartial advice and information on what matters most: money, housing and care.

We financially support local community organisations across the UK through our grants programme. We campaign for change for older people struggling with their finances.

You can call us on freephone 0800 319 6789 (Monday to Friday, 8.30am to 5.30pm) or email helpline@independentage.org to arrange to speak to one of our advisers.
